

VISTA ROYALE COMPUTER CLUB

March 11, 2021

Attendance 13

Topic was New Edge Cross Platform Browser

Microsoft's new Edge browser runs on Windows 7 – Windows 10. It also runs on Android, and iOS tablets and smartphones. If you sign into the browser it can synch your bookmarks, passwords, and extension from one device to another,

New Edge, is based on Chromium open-source code, as are the Chrome and Opera browsers. It has the best features from Firefox and Chrome baked in.

You Should Have More Than One Browser

Not all websites are compatible with all browsers. Different browsers have different features.

How they print, the extensions, bookmark or favorites handling, read aloud, immersive reader, collections....

Also, browsers don't share cookies, so you can be logged into the same website simultaneously under two different accounts in different browsers.

Customize your browser.

At a minimum you need to fix the downloads feature so that you can give files a meaningful name. These are some of the customizations for Edge.

Printing

Printing from a browser rarely prints the way it displayed on the screen.

Always preview your printing before you print.

If it doesn't look right in the preview, look for printer icons or PRINT links embedded in the document.

Email Print icons are usually buried in a menu for the individual email.

Printing a selection.

In Edge or Chrome right click on the selection and select "Print"

In Chrome you can access a selection under "More Settings" from the print dialog screen

In Firefox there is no method to print a selection.

OTHER PLATFORMS

On tablets and smartphones, Edge, Chrome and Firefox don't have the tab tear off feature, but Safari has added the tear off and split screen views.
